Big Brains Better.
Big Business Better.
Life Held Lightly.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

MOUNT ROKATINDA, on the Island of Paloweh, Dutch East Indies, blew up in a volcanic eruption. Half the island, six villages were destroyed, a thousand killed.

Yesterday news came that three more villages were wiped out by a tidal wave caused by a submarine earthquake.

We pay little attention to these deaths far away, a thousand or fifty thousand, little difference.

But we ought to observe with gratitude how many things might happen to us that do not happen.

Radich, Croatian statesman, murdered leader of Panosists, is found to have a brain of abnormal weight, 1459 grammes.

The average for 11,000 brains was 1361 grammes.

All things being equal, a heavier brain is better than a lighter brain.

But one of the heaviest brains ever weighed, that of Cuvier, the great naturalist, was lighter than that of a man who died in a British poorhouse.

Possibly the man in the poorhouse was also a genius, but never had a chance.

New York has another combination. Gas companies combining in a one billion dollar merger make a few shudder and groan perfunctorily. But the old agony is missing.

A billion isn't much. Several private corporations represent four billions each and nobody worries. It is the day of big business, the bigger the better.

If the people haven't brains enough to watch a billion dollar gas company, they wouldn't have enough to watch $500,000,000 consorts.

George B. Cortelyou, who will head the new concern, is intelligent as well as energetic. He knows that modern corporations find it profitable to consider the public welfare.

Murderers lose their own lives lightly, which explains their taking other lives lightly. In the gloomy death room at Sing Sing prison, three men went out to the electric chair. One, "Handsome Dan" Graham, was a young policeman, executed for murdering a man whom he was supposed to protect on his way to the bank. He took from him $4700 and spent it all "in one night's racket."

Another, Kalanowski, murdered a keeper in his prison. A third, George Appel, killed a police lieutenant. All went to the chair smiling. Appel remarked as he sat down, "I'll be baked again soon."

Pierre S. Du Pont resigned, temporarily, as chairman of General Motors, following Mr. Raabok, and, like him, Mr. Du Pont comes out for Governor Smith.

Mr. Raabok, the illegals and immoralities of the enforcement law.

Governor Smith is fortunate, not to the great wealth of the men that support him, which makes little difference, out in their ability as managers and organizers. They are two of the ablest business men in the United States.

Dr. Dodd, of the University of Chicago, tells the Institute of Public Affairs that the South is at the turn of the road and is turning toward even greater prosperity.

"New England mills have moved to North Carolina and Georgia. There are vast industrial districts from Greensboro to Atlanta. Sky-scrapers rise from the Southern plains."

Dr. Dodd says some of the new prosperity in the South have "democratic" elements while the old Republican success, presumably because they think the Republican party is the "big money" party.

Sombody is making money. General Motors announces for the first half of 1928 increased profits of $129,000,000, an increase net profits of $30,000,000.

Protest Rum Blockade

A delegation from the Brickbottom and Gold Coast sections of Somerville went to Dilboy Field today to protest to U. S. Senator David I. Walsh at the action of Dist. Atty. Sutherland in practically declaring martial law in that section.

Senator Walsh was to be the chief speaker at a demonstration staged by the Somerville Women's Democratic Club at the field.

The delegation was prepared to inform Sen. Walsh that not only has the district received a black eye since the State troopers took charge, but they have driven away much business, one merchant estimating his loss already at $100,000.

On Warren st., claimed that many out-of-town customers and been frightened away by the troopers.

The State police guard today took new and more drastic steps to dry up the flood of liquor.

In addition to searching every automobile leaving or entering the town, the police have been ordered to search every car entering the town.

SHARKEY IS TUNNEY'S CHOICE

By FRANK REILLY

Copyright, 1928, by the Boston Evening American. All rights reserved.

South Bristol, Mass., Aug. 11—If Jack Sharkey and Jack Dempsey meet in the ring again, Sharkey will be the victor, Gene Tunney predicted today.

Stepping outside the cloak of his retirement and his new role of husband-to-be of a $500,000 heiress, the retired heavyweight champion of the world talked of prize fights and boxing, intellectual training and college education.

Tunney's prognostication and his advisory advice were not given in any formal interview. They were mere and casual remarks made at three local hotels, residence of the boxer, made in the presence of a few friends.

40 POLICE SEIZE RUM IN 14 RAIDS ON CAPE

Yankees, Aug. 11—In the most successful liquor raid ever made on Cape Cod, State police, custom officers and local police today swooped down on rum and booze new places in Yarmouth, Barnstable and Yarmouth.

Forty State police, brought here from Worcester and Middlesex county, directed the raids, which were carried out at a dozen points simultaneously.

The day's work in an all-night raid was one of the places raided. The alleged manager, Mrs. Pauline Hubbard, was arrested.

SHARKEY WOULD LICK DEMPSEY IN BATTLE, SAYS GENE TUNNEY

New Englander Tells Hoover Today He's Running for President While Millions Listen in

TELS HIS VIEWS TO 3 BOYS

Leader estate on John's island, upon invitation of the champion.

The youths who were with him are Louis Hatch, Jr., 14, his brother Philip, 12, and Melvin Thompson, 10. The brothers are sons of Louis Hatch, captain of a boat plying among the islands off this town. Thompson is the son of the local ice man, Walter Thompson.

The last wanted to "see Tunney," as he has on every of newspaper news carried throughout the past few days. The difference was that Tunney wanted and was willing to see them.

"POLLY" INVITED BY FIANCÉE

As upon invitation of "Polly" Lander's fiancée, who had heard of their visit, they were taken to the champion's island retreat today about the Lander great-grandfather.

Tunney was at breakfast when they were shown by Capt. Al Harrington, major domo of the estate.

"Hello," said Gene, "Mighty glad to see you."

He shook hands with each as Harrington introduced them.

"Do you like boxing?" Gene asked.

"Yes," the three boys chorused.

"Well, do you think you'd win if Dempsey and Sharkey fought again?"

ANSWERS OWN QUERY

"Yes," said Tunney, "I would win."

"How do you think you'd win?" asked Tunney, "because Dempsey hasn't been in the ring for so long."

"Have you boys got boxing gloves?" he continued.

"Yes," said Louis, "we've all got them."

"Use them every day," advised the man who climbed by their aid to fame, fortune and a beautiful heiress. "Boxing is a beautiful and body building exercise."

FAVORS GOING TO VALE

Gene then inquired what school they attended and they told him of the grammar school at South Boston.

"Are you going to college?" asked Gene.

"Yes," said Louis, "we've all got them."

"You can do so better than to go to Yale. Yale is a wonderful educational institution. I never had the opportunity. I have always regretted it."

"I've heard there on Shakespear," said Louis.

Tunney then invited the champion to accompany them on a fishing trip for the week. Tunney said he expected to go away in a few days but upon his return he would be delighted to go with them.

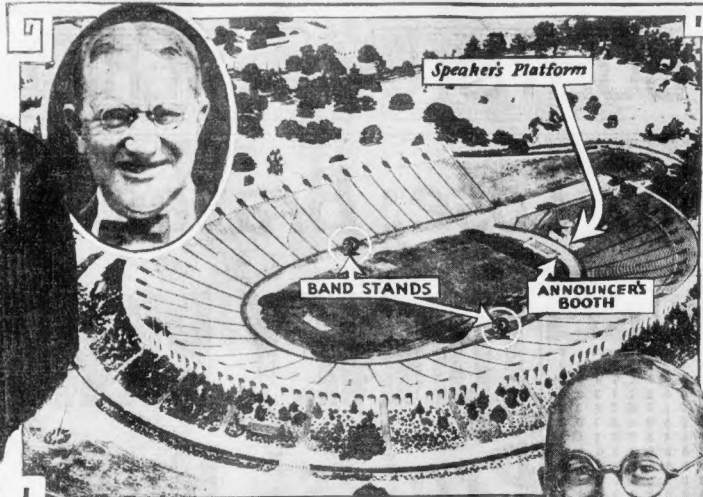

"I enjoyed your call, you may come again," he invited as they left.

SHE'LL BE THERE

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who will attend ceremonies today at the formal notification of her husband that he is the G. O. P. presidential nominee.

He is expected to be in South Boston. But for the press, Tunney was no more amiable than heretofore. The strict guard remained posted about the island to ward off all would-be intruders and the only one to challenge the champion's right to be alone was a young lieutenant, Ralph Stearns, who "hauled him out" across several yards of open water for putting on the "high hat" with the Maine girls.

FINAL PLEA FOR GUSTIN TODAY

A sharp verbal clash between John W. Corrigan of defense counsel and H. Ammi Cutler, assistant attorney general, marked today's close of the State House hearing which will determine whether Frank Wallace, alias Gustin, will be delivered to Detroit police for trial on murder and robbery charges.

Cutler's report to Governor Fuller will be made Monday.

The litigant over a difference of fact of the alleged identification of Wallace as the man who killed a Detroit policeman during a holdup in the Detroit News office, June 4.

An affidavit of E. Fred Thornton of Detroit, dated identification in the courtroom on July 26 and a deputy sheriff yesterday testified Wallace was in jail on that date.

The only evidence introduced today was the testimony of a Detroit policeman who testified that a person was pointed out on that date.

"It is reasonable to assume Thornton may have made an error in saying the 'id'," said Cutler.

"But the evidence only shows 'a person' was pointed out," protested Corrigan.

Replied Cutler: "It is not an unreasonable inference that the person pointed out was the defendant."

"I don't want any inferences," shouted Corrigan. "This man's liberty is at stake and I am here to protect his rights."

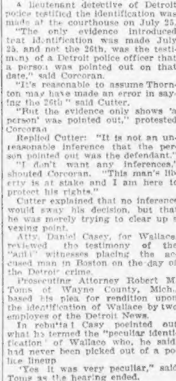

Cutler explained that no inference would sway his decision, but that he was merely trying to clear up a "verbal point."

Atty. Daniel Casey, for Wallace, reviewed the testimony of the "id" witnesses placing the accused man in Boston on the day of the Detroit crime.

Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Tamm of Wayne County, Mich., based his plea for rendition upon the identification of Wallace by two employees of the Detroit News.

In rebuttal Casey pointed out what he termed the "peculiar identification" of Wallace who, he said, had never been picked out of a police lineup.

"Yes it was very peculiar," said Tamm as the hearing ended.

JAIL AND FINE FOR TWO IN MILL STRIKE

New Bedford, Aug. 11.—Elizabeth Duggan, of Boston, children's organizer for the Textile Mills committee, and Marion Bichelo, picket captain, were fined $5 each and sentenced to 30 days today for leading children in strike chess and songs in a local park.

Fines of $20 or $30, according to their previous records, were assessed on seven others, while other cases were continued at request of counsel. All those found guilty, and sentenced entered appeal.

MOVE TO HALT LIQUOR FLOW

District, the State troopers began arresting persons carrying bottles through the street.

Despite the heavy police guard which has been maintained in the district since Wednesday, the order of District Attorney Russell barred the liquor.

After a close checkup it was discovered that a number of boys as well as several women, had successfully run the police blockade and had carried a considerable quantity of liquor to other sections where its disposal was fraught with less danger.

The order was immediately sent out to search all suspicious persons, male or female.

So far only persons carrying bottles have been stopped by the troopers. News of this new and drastic action spread quickly through the section with the result that there was a noticeable lack of bottles being carried through the streets of the district today.

Workers passing through the district with dinner pails were carefully scrutinized and in several instances the dinner pails were searched.

Early today an additional squad of Cambridge police were sent to the Somerville line, the word having reached the police that the bootleggers were determined to defy the police and sell to their regular customers today.

Meanwhile the proprietors of the 18 houses against which padlock injunctions are pending, have raised several thousand dollars with which to fight the proceedings in court next week.

JOHN J. MURPHY CLUB HAS 'AL SMITH DAY'

With United States Senators Royal S. Copeland of New York and David I. Walsh as features, the John J. Murphy Democratic Club of Somerville opens its campaign this afternoon and evening with an "Al Smith Day" at South C. Ross Park, at Broadway and Northern Artery.

It was originally planned to have Governor Hilditch of Maryland as one of the speakers, but he was unable to attend and Senator Copeland will take his place as the out-of-state speaker.

Gen. Charles H. Cole, Chairman Frank J. Donahue of the State committee and others will speak.

John J. Murphy will preside at the meeting, which will start at 7 o'clock.

HEAT WAVE IN WEST CAUSES 29 DEATHS

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Wind which brought a slight drop in temperature, a break in the heat wave, which has caused 29 deaths in the last 24 hours.

The Middle West and Northwest suffered the most fatalities and heat prostrations, although the terrible wave was felt throughout the Southwestern States.

Twenty deaths, directly attributed to the heat, were reported in and near Chicago, where the temperature went above the 90-degree mark.

LOVE MOTIVE IN SIAMESE TWIN OPERATION

New York, Aug. 11.—Love—a wish to wed—is the motive that may enter the nation's famous Siamese twins, the Gibbes sisters, of Massachusetts, according to a report at a local hospital today.

At this hospital, the twins—Mary and Margaret—are being prepared for a surgical operation planned by Dr. Francis P. Weston, and considered one of the most difficult and dangerous ever undertaken.

It was announced the operation might be today.

Margaret is reported as having asked for the operation so she might be free to marry.

Mary, it is said, agreed, as soon as her sister informed her of the wish.

TILL OF PERIL

No, together, they announced the wish to be separated by surgery. Medical experts said today it would be "almost a miracle" if they survived such an operation.

Dr. Siegfried Block, of Brooklyn, who said he had examined the twins, declared he did not think they could live if separated.

Friends of Dr. Weston said he would certainly not operate until he had become almost certain of success.

The twins are 17 years of age. Once before, according to a dispatch from Holyoke, Mass., where they live, the twins were under observation to determine whether they could be separated.

At the age of three they were taken to the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, but after extended study of the case, surgeons

HUNDREDS FLEE FLOOD IN SO. CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Sweeping up from Georgia, where it left threats of flood in its wake, the tropical storm that last night menaced the Florida coast today struck the Carolina with unprecedented rains, causing unestimated damage and driving hundreds of persons from their homes.

The Piedmont section of South Carolina appeared to have been hardest hit. Spartanburg reported the entire mill village of Bestmont, Arkwright and Fawcett flooded and residents fleeing, buildings undamaged in the city. Wire communication badly crippled and the city gas supply cut off by flooding of the plant.

More than seven inches of rain fell at Spartanburg. Union reported scores of Negro houses flooded on the lowlands and crops and highways badly damaged. Greenwood had 2.68 inches of rain, the heaviest fall ever reported there.

Rain continued to fall all over the section today.

Six persons were reported injured by the storm at Batesburg, S. C., and another report said a freight train had been blown off the track near Newberry. And the fate of the train could not be verified.

In the Piedmont district highway bridges were washed out in many directions. Northrup reported that all highway bridges were cut and trains both north and south running late. Unkai also reported highway bridges cut.

FIRST RESULTS OF STRAW POLL WILL BE PRINTED TOMORROW

POPE WILL PUBLISH RESULTS

You are not asked to give your name. The Boston Evening American is not interested in any individual's choice for President. The aim is to collect a representative cross-section of votes which will indicate just how each district or county feels.

While the canvass is going on in Maine, Mass., and the other New England States, Hearst newspapers throughout the country are also busy. Every state about which there is the slightest doubt will be canvassed.

POLL INDIVIDUAL STATES
Tennessee, Kentucky, Wisconsin, North and South Carolina, Florida, Massachusetts and Missouri, will be polled so thoroughly that readers of the Hearst newspapers should know just what the voters in those states will do on election day. If, as is asserted, there is no realignment of the states in November, the poll will show it.

All the names of those canvassed are taken from the lists of voters, prepared by the state and local boards of election, so that there will be no duplication and no person will vote more than once in the poll.

All other weaknesses characteristic of ordinary straw votes have been carefully studied and methods devised to reduce them to a negligible minimum.

PAPERS CANVASSING
The plan, then, which is an error proof as it seems humanly possible to make it, is an undertaking of this kind kind of such care, in being carried out under the direction of the following Hearst newspapers:

Boston Evening American,
Boston Sunday Messenger,
Chicago Herald and Examiner,
Seattle Post-Intelligencer,
San Francisco Examiner,
Oakland Post-Opinion,
Los Angeles Examiner,
San Antonio Light,
Omaha Bee-Herald,
Milwaukee Wisconsin News,
Detroit Times,
Washington D. C. Herald,
Hartford News,
Hingham South-Telegram,
New York American,
Rochester N. Y. Journal,
Syracuse N. Y. American.

Freedom of the press is being abused largely to the great credit and thickly populated rural districts of the big problem confronting the pollsters today is, "How can we get the truth?" The test ballots of the Hearst newspapers will endeavor to furnish an answer to this before the votes are counted next November.

RECLUSE IS FOUND DEAD WITH HIS DOG ON GUARD
Monroe, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A recluse, for nearly 30 years a recluse, was found dead in his home in an isolated section, about four miles from the nearest settlement. The body was discovered by Mrs. P. J. U.S. Athletes Compete in Post-Olympic Games

NORDIC SUPREMACY has further proof in the person of Lieut. Thofeldt of Sweden, who won the pentathlon at the Olympics. Thofeldt is a member of the Swedish police force.

NEW YORK NATATOR. George Kojac of the Boys' Club in Gotham helped to prolong Uncle Sam's series of victories in Olympic swimming by winning the 100-meter back-stroke at Amsterdam.

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE; that is the question; whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer the hooks and jabs of an outrageous aggressor or to take arms against this sea of troubles and, by retiring, end them. To rest, to sleep, and by a sleep to say we end the body-aches and the thousand spine-cracking punches that a champion is heir to, 'tis a consummation devoutly to be wished. To rest, to sleep, to quaff light wines; perchance to dream; aye, there's the life. For in that sleep of retirement what dreams may come when we have shuffled out of the heavyweight realm, must give us joy." Gene, with Shakespearian-tinted thoughts stalking through his mind, dreams of the champions who have gone before him. Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Johnson, Willard and Dempsey, fighting men, every one of them losing his title with his boots on, but not until nature alone had conquered their indomitable courage. But Gene, his fortune made, nonchalantly retires to be married.

SO NEAR AND YET—well, anyhow, the rider managed to get back in his seat and drive his horse across in first place. The horse is Pytchley, who won the Maiden Hurdles at Fleming, Australia. Pytchley was leading at the time and came to a jump. The rider, a bit indisposed, thought he'd go up a bit higher and get some air. He did and the cameraman caught him in the act.

BEAUTIFUL, BUT QUITE ATHLETIC. Miss Ethel Catherwood, winner of the high jump in the women's Olympics, was considered the prettiest contestant at Amsterdam. She represented Canada and carried the Maple Leaf to a first place that enabled her team to win the ladies meet from America by a five-point margin.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES. Joe Lynch and Bill Donnelly, winner and runner-up in the Hearst Junior golf tournament held at the Blue Hill Country Club, buried the mashie and played together in the Woodland "member and guest" tourney. Both boys received beautiful cups, presented for their brilliant exhibition in the golf tournament. Lynch is a former Massachusetts junior golf champion. He's considered one of the best prospects in New England.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPER

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediate.

3. By after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
4. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.

5. Federal action to limit of Federal Government powers to abolish slavery among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
6. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the election of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

And, Then—

We Catch THREE Hit-and-Runners

The Governor's Council continues to reward with payments of One Hundred Dollars citizens who are prompt to tell the authorities about hit-and-run automobilists.

THREE such payments were authorized on Wednesday of the present week.

It is encouraging to observe that the payment of these rewards has become almost the settled policy of the State authorities, NOT so encouraging to note what is done to the hit-and-runners once they are apprehended.

Mrs. B., who hit a milk wagon, found guilty of charges of leaving the scene of an accident and operating her car in such a way as to endanger human life, was fined $25 on each complaint.

J. B. D., business college student, who struck a boy at Commonwealth Avenue and Warren Street, Brighton, was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and placed on probation.

M. M., truck driver, struck a 10-year-old Somerville girl and, being found guilty of "leaving the scene," was given a 30-day sentence. This sentence was suspended.

For information leading to the arrest of three hit-and-runners, therefore, we have paid out $300 in addition to the wages of, and the wear and tear upon, policemen, clerk-tendants, prosecuting officers and court attendants.

And, having landed them, we collect $500 from one offender, slap another on the wrist and ALMOST threaten to slap the third.

Was it not YOUR understanding that something was about to be DONE to the hit-and-run motorists? Where is the sense in THIS program?

Harmony and Discord

Treats of a Night Worker

Whatever the courts may say, if unhappily the Cambridge controversy should be carried that far, the sympathy of night workers will be on the side of the policeman who cannot sleep a day because his neighbor is so diligent in his piano practice.

Naturally, there is much to be said on behalf of the neighbor, no mere beginner but a concert pianist if you please, and it is being said.

Rob a man of his sleep and you have robbed him of his fitness for work; take away the concert pianist's piano and he, too, is fit only for the ranks of the unemployed.

How shall such a neighborhood dispute be settled amicably? Perhaps some young lady in the Portia Law School will tell us if there is anything in the State reports. Solomon made HIS reputation on a baby case, and it was not a baby grand.

Unless the lawyers have been called in, we would respectfully suggest to the virtuoso of Fresh Pond that until he sees his neighbor of the P. D. up and about in the early afternoon he confine himself to the playing of lullabies.

And, Professor, pianissimo, IF you please.

LIFE IN AMERICA IS PRETTY GOOD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is a common tradition, much fostered by such books as "Dahitt" and "Main Street," that life in America is pretty sad.

When you see a play like "Desire Under the Elms" or read "West of the Water Tower," you gather the idea that life in America is rather appalling. People are supposed to do nothing but follow the plow, stick their nose in the desk, attend women's sewing circles.

Berbert Hoover in one of the magazines recently has been moved to retort to this slander.

He says that our public school system by offering equal educational opportunities to all is not producing a mass of people who think, act and live alike. On the contrary, from these schools spring an infinite variety.

Our cities have more plays and concerts, our country dais have a large attendance, our politics have a greater variety of issues, our motion pictures are better and more widespread, and altogether life is more diversified here than in any other country in the world.

Our leaders do not all come from the same class, but they come from all classes and are of various temperaments and talents. Having equal opportunity develops variety.

Our mass production comes only through leadership, which is developed by open rivalry, equal opportunity and self-respect everywhere.

"European travelers among us are strange," says Mr. Hoover; "they look at Vermonters, and Texans, and Mr. Smith, Governor of New York; at Mr. Borah, senior Senator from Idaho; at the cotton planter of Mississippi, at the metal miner of Montana, at the Quaker college of Swarthmore and at the Catholic college of Notre Dame, at larger audiences than exist anywhere else, both for motion pictures and Greek dramas. They look at the most variegated scene of human character and local customs ever exhibited within the confines of one country, and they call it monotonous."

It will be found that life in a free democracy, offering equal opportunity to all, is more interesting, fuller of adventure, opens the fields for greater ambitions and offers the means of their fulfillment more generously than life anywhere in Europe.

It takes a long while for Americans to rid themselves of the dominance of European traditions and most of our literati have not yet done so. The mass of Americans, however, are finding out that life may be as full as and as varied without alcoholic liquors as with them.

Nothing has done so much toward lifting life in America out free from the dominance of the past as has the prohibition amendment.

Travelers abroad are usually glad to get back to their native country, and to be freed from a society stabilized by class dominance. You come nearer not knowing what is going to happen next in America than anywhere else in the world.

That have a way with them,
Not wide wood roads, all pruned and pared—

But little, tangled paths—
Half hidden in the brush,
And near my dress and dirty both my ears

And whisper—"Come with me!"
Masked paths that turn and twist
So musky sweet, so shadow still—
Yet full of murmuring—

As though Adventure waited—
Just around the turn—
And Romance stole on tip toe, starry eyed,

And Magic flickered through the deep, green shade.

I like wood roads,
I always want to follow when they
